

4 Steps to Becoming a Prayer Warrior Parent

1. Set aside a time each day to pray for your child
2. Prepare a place for prayer - a quiet spot (chair, closet, front porch swing) where you can talk with God
3. Pick out specific Scriptures that inspire you to pray
4. Start a prayer journal for writing out your prayer requests and God's answers, and custom prayers

Perhaps you sometimes don't know WHAT to pray or HOW to say it.

May I suggest the 170+ prayers inspired by scripture in the book: Mom's Little Book of Powerful Prayers.

At your fingertips are 170+ powerful prayers from Fern Nichols, the founder of Moms In Prayer International™, the movement that has spawned hundreds of thousands of moms around the world to pray for their kids. With this book of Scripture-inspired prayers you will feel encouraged to pray diligently for your children, no matter their age, and discover prayers for your child's every need: their protection, challenges, health, friendships, character, anger, sadness, fears, and more.

Use the book for ideas for your prayer journal, writing out and customizing your prayers for each of your children and the things they're going through. In the Index of this book you will find a prayer and Bible verse for nearly every topic you can think of – from sibling bickering to praying for your child's future spouse. This book will help you pray over their spiritual and personal development all year long.

You'll learn how to pray for...

- Developing healthy self-esteem
- Forgiving others
- Making wise decisions
- Guarding against false teaching
- Trusting in God's goodness
- Comfort for a broken heart

- Praying for his/her future spouse
